PROCESSING OF PERSONAL DATA

SVA processes personal data in accordance with the General Data Protection Regulation (EU) 2016/679. The personal data collected are necessary to fulfill our contractual obligations. The data may be further processed to investigate, for example, the origin and spread of infectious animal diseases as well as for research and development. SVA does not save personal data longer than necessary. Since SVA conducts research, it may be necessary to save personal data needed for research for a long time.

You are entitled to request

- information about your personal data
- correction of inaccurate personal data or deletion of personal data
- limitation of or objection to processing of data.

You have the right to file a complaint with The Swedish Data Protection Authority on how your data is processed. SVA is a public authority which means that all data sent to us can become public documents.

Contact information to our Data Controller and Data Protection Officer, for example to request transcripts from registries, please write to the National Veterinary Institute, 751 89 Uppsala, Sweden.

YOUR SAMPLES WILL HELP US TO BE BETTER

SVA is tasked with preventing, diagnosing and combating infectious diseases in animals. The samples you send to us are therefore important not only for you but also for SVA's operations in general. They allow for us, among other things, to continuously monitor the health status of animals in all of Sweden in collaboration with other government agencies. Sometimes it may also be of general interest that we conduct additional studies on the submitted material and compile test results for research purposes. Any necessary information sharing with other agencies and the reporting of results is made without reference to the individual samples unless Swedish law stipulates otherwise.

If you prefer that your particular samples are not used in this way for research and to monitor the health situation, we kindly ask you to notify us to this effect, either directly in the internal review.
